

Sy.Med Announces New "OneApp Cloud" Software Model

PRNewswire Press Release: Sy.Med – Thu, Jan 5, 2012 12:09 PM EST

NASHVILLE, Tenn. , Jan. 5, 2012 /PRNewswire/ -- Sy.Med, a leading provider of credentialing software in the healthcare industry, announced today the launch of its new OneApp Cloud software model. The program is a cloud-based version of its popular OneApp software, which enables healthcare organizations to complete an unlimited number of credentialing applications by inputting provider information just one time.

The OneApp Cloud software is hosted by Sy.Med and decreases cost by reducing the amount of hardware, supporting software, network management and IT expenses needed to run the program. It also boasts simpler implementation, remote access, automatic updates, disaster recovery and improved performance over Sy.Med's traditional client-server software.

"The new OneApp Cloud program revamps and revolutionizes our credentialing software offering," said Lance Hebert , Vice President of Sales and Marketing at Sy.Med. "By utilizing the cloud concept, we make it even easier for healthcare organizations to quickly and efficiently implement software to streamline the credentialing process."

"This is a wonderful, easy-to-use program for us to utilize in our growing state," said Kimberly Russell of Results Physiotherapy, one of Sy.Med's first OneApp Cloud clients. "It previously took me six to eight hours to complete each credentialing application. With OneApp Cloud, I had the first one knocked out in just over an hour."

OneApp Cloud is installed and fully functional for several of Sy.Med's clients and is now widely available.
